

I would enjoy seeing CBS stop their broadcasts in HDTV if they don't get their way with their DRM threats. This (law) was all said and done with VCR's back in the day. Why waste time on it now? It is a persons right (I believe) to record "PUBLIC" broadcasts. I guess that is why they are not called "PRIVATE" broadcasts.

Thanks,

Steve

PS I will not be buying one of these "DRM" machines ever since it is really not worth paying that much money to have my rights stripped from me (Public air waves being privatized, bending over for commercial after commercial, not being able to record any programs on TV, etc). It's not worth the hassle.
